

BAB ON THE EDUCATION

AMERICAN WOMEN

[Copyright, 1952]

It hasn't been so many years and been called "Mrs. Added Simmons specified and wretched for the ground to be known as "Mrs. James been so many years and been called shirted with the same and an article woman as "Mrs. James been so many years and being called about the solution of woman. I have been as being held up to the solution of woman. And with the called the solution of woman. And with the result of all high-reduction for woman, I have had the so called high-reduction of woman. And with high-reduction of woman and woman is the wear and the solution of woman and woman is the woman i er, because I should have understood the why and wherefore of everything, and I would have been a better woman

And, then, this old fashioned mother denied herself her new black dress, freshened up an old bonnet, made the younger children's clothes all answer for another season, so that there might be money enough without bothering father, to give the oldest girl the advantage of a college education. After her first year at college much was not expected of her. She told of the big buildings, of the learned professors, of her own special friends, and if she lin-gered rather more lovingly over her account of a game of basketball or the sports in the gymnasium than she did over the account given of her studies the good mother thought it was because it was all new to her.

Next year she didn't come home for the vacation, but as the loving mother worked away busily at the winter ward-robe she thought with delight of the friends her child had made, and did boast a little to her neighbors about the fine folks that Jennie was visiting. It hurt her a bit when Jennie wrote that she'd better not bother about making her dresses any more, as her methods were rather countrified, but to send her the money instead. And she wondered if Jennie forgot that, while she could find time to sew, it was not so easy to get ready money. But the next girl, who lacked Jennie's ambition, so they said, gave up her music less the money might go to the pride of the family.

The next summer Jennie seemed a bit of a stranger. She was a stylish looking young lady, whose mother was bound to feel proud of her appearance. but who was forced to confess that she was afraid that Jennie was not quite so proud of the home folks. Then came the time when Jennie was home for good. The younger sister, who was supposed to lack ambition, though busy teaching away in a kindergarten so that she might have money for those dearly loved music lessons, found time, nevertheless, to make Jennie's room look like a dainty nest, waiting for this bird that had flown so far away from

And when she came! There was noappreciation for the pretty curtains. She threw her dusty bag, did Jennie, the pretty, white draped bed and herself into an easy chair, with scarcely a greeting for anybody. And then-well, then enobody knew what to do

Here was a strange young lady, a deal as far as books went, but who knew very little as far as good manners were concerned. The stay-at-home sis-ter had a great piece of news for herthere was to be a vacancy in one of the large schools, and the entire neighborhood expected it to be offered to the girl who had been to college and who represented that higher education of women. But this young lady announced that she didn't intend to bury herself in any country hole.

This Jennie was a strange one to the people about her. She did not hesitate to correct before other people the mistakes made by that dear mother, and she hesitated less at snubbing every girl who hadn't had the same advan tages as she. She forgot that as the years went by it was by no means unusual, especially when the heart did much loving and the heart continually taught the brain the lesson of unselfishness, that those earlier lesson learned at school should be overlooked. And the mother who had denied herself And the mother who had denied herself many of the necessities of life that her girl might be properly taught shed many a bitter tear when she learned that her daughter was ashamed of her. And the others, who had hoped to so proud of her, learned to dislike her because she continually found fault—because she continual is a laughing stock to people who know any good is gained by chasing around edge of her own country and of the reach much above the knee.

needs in life of both men and women, is the knowledge that we want for our

I know you are laughing, but even Bab grows serious once in a while when she sees sweet, young, ambitious girls to raise arms against those who carry and yataghans?

ABOLISHING FEMALE SLAVERY

It is more than probable that their will unfit them for heavy labor, and that their glimpse of the position of fairly well to do women in Europe will nake them unwilling to be beasts of urden, while the men idle through long years of peace, parading useless weap-ons and standing in readiness to be alled out to fight an enemy who never But if the Montenegrin continues to think work beneath the dignity of a warrior, after his wife has sen from her condition of slavery, the parren rocks will refuse the scanty rops they now yield, and an increased ubsidy from both Russia and Austria will alone save the little principality from ruin.

For the time being the position of half educated girls in the Montenegrin villages is a very awkward one. Many must needs be in the minority and those who do not reach so high a standard of excellence are out of place when they return to their native cottages. They cannot work and they are not wanted to teach, and, though greatly improved and emancipated, they suffer from being more advanced than the rest of the ountry people. In time, as the older generation dies off and education spreads, this isolation will disappear. but meantime those in the forefront of the change must suffer.

Perhaps peace and independence will ring about what the Turks could never effect. Now that the tide of Islamian has ebbed away from the rocks of Montenegro, all reason for the existence the little principality as a separate state has also passed away. Montenegro is but a part of Herzegovina. and now that that province is no longer ruled by the Turks, but administered by a Christian power, the necessity for a Slav state artificially separated from other Slav states is rapidly and obviusly reasing to exist. In the old days the men were warriors and the women workers; but now the men will have to do their share of the work, and the education and emancipation of the wemen is one of the first symptoms, as it will assuredly be one of the final causes, of Montenegro finally ceasing to exist as a separate, isolated and independent state, at any rate with her present restricted boundaries,

A RECIPE IN VERSE. A REGIFE IN VERSE. Should you ask me, friend and actor, "Whence its door and its emouthness, Whence its subte fascination?" I should answer, I should tell you: "From the methods of its mixture, From the methods of its mixture, From the choice of its ingredients And the time of introduction This the way to make rarehit: Give me of your cheese, O grocer, Good, fresh dairy cheese domestic— Cheese quite fresh not old and moder, Cut it then in sainty fragments— Pragments cut in sizes equal. Light the spirit lamp and place it "Neath the blazer brightly gleaning. Then a lump of botter placing In the blazer, watch it creaming. Creaming in the heated blazer. Then, with definess, add the substance— Creamy substance—cut in fragments.

"Then when it doth male and thicken eThen when it doth mult and thicken Pour on abs-the ale called lines. Gently add in aranty spoonfuls. Lest you chill the substance melting, Always edirfing, silving always. When the cheese to heat surrenders, From into this dish so tempting Two temptons, measured finely—Cuby two—of good, dry mustard. This you said to keep dryoppila—Grim dyspeptia—from partakers. All this while keep up the stirring, Always ettering, stirring always. Add a touch of red paprika. This is the fee of indigestion—Deadly fee of indigestion—Deadly fee of indigestion—

"Now you stir with vim and ardor
For the rarebit hears completion,
And the appetites are whethed
liv the subtle faint aroma.
Plates—hat plates—must be heade you,
Crowned with buttered tonet and waiting.
For the haptism of the rarebit.
Hot and smooth, and, oh, so fragrant!

"Quickly hid the guests assuit it Ere a breath of sir can chill it. Ale or heer attend the feasting. And delay is most disastrous. Plates and touck and beet and glasses Must be ready at your elbow. Quickly served and quickly eaten And the grame be stoken after, This the secret of the rurabit.

TYROLEAN HAT DESIGNED FOR WINTER WEAR. It is quite the fashion now to wear with tailor made costumes one of the various new styles of Tyrolean hats. It is said that the Prince of Wales secured various specimens of native headgear from Marienbad, in the Tyrol, with the probable result of popularizing these styles in England for both men and ladies. One of the new hats is a drab felt, with turned back brim on the left side, held in place by a large button. It is similar to several brought back by Princess Louise from the same haloyon spot, while a second is of the old Tyrolean type, with rolled up brim back and sides, the front drooping somewhat over the forehead. A couple of guinea fewl or partridge wing feathers are tucked into the velvet band laid around the crown.

talk about her college, her foolish idea man knows about everything, the more a war about her college. And yet Jennie was not a well educated girl. Her knowl.

edge. like that of many another girl who was a proud graduate of Jones' college or Thomas Brown university, was the mother of two dear little children, means more than all the Greek literawell, she knew little of geography, while her brother of 12 could correct her spelling and arithmetic.

You think I don't know what I am in Greek literature.

The mother to two dear inthe change in the charge of a young, pretty cousin. The Jennie I have cited may be met in almost every small town. She is a sorrow to her parents and a burden to her college to take a special course in Greek literature.

The New Skirt.

One of the distinctive features of the moment's notice. You think I don't know what I am in Greek literature.

From the black leading about things in the wrong way. She mew skirt is that it is cut very long in the black leading to be carble to or from market, the good wife blame me if I drift from began by forgetting the advantage of the other sand sisters. She has gone her brothers and sisters. She has gone her black leading down behind to be carble to or from market, the good wife began by forgetting the advantage of den and the front breadth must be as strapped it across her shoulders and with bent back and laborature forces.

The feet must be completely hider of the front breadth must be as strapped it across her shoulders and with bent back and laborature forces.

the fields, made gardens out of barren a thick cloth skirt reaching to the angles of rock and grew the corn and ankles and a short waistcoat of scarlet vegetables for the family's use. They or purple velvet, which is always left were the beasts of burden, for a man open to show the chemise. Round the with an arsenal of weapons in his belt waist they wear a broad heavy belt, freand who night at any turn of the road quently made of sliver, and, in the case come across a deadly enemy could not of rich women, ornamented with valuafford to be encumbered with a load, able stones. Over all is worn the ko-but was forced to keep his hands free ret, a long white coat with sleeves, that to defend himself and his property at a falls down over the skirt but remains moment's notice.

open in front, and on their heads a Therefore, if anything had to be car-black kerchief hanging down behind.

by graduates of various colleges in this country, 306 in writing and spelling with have been a discrace to a gird would have been a discrace to a gird double width material will have one that which would have been of advantage of the rectification. It is a mind the been added the public for his part, strode over the rocate with the which would have been of advantage on the full new one that which would have been of average with every search search that which would have been of average with every search search what her to college are more to her than her this which would have been a discrace of the receive work of his arms, proud in the conscious that her book and been and the been advantage of the receive with the original work with material gized for her existence in the Arabfash- warriors and statesmen can neither tings, and are called tallboys.

RECIPES FOR CLEANING.

Fruit stains may usually be removed will be counteracted. Rinse again thereby pouring bolling water through it falls add oxalic acid, jured. Javelle water is recommended for other water to dissolving 3 ownees in a pint of water for washing with solution for five. Cleaning recipe is highly recommended for over a distingtive water is cleaning. This cream water water and into the stain in then steam it by holding lowing recipe is highly recommended for over a clean of the water in a during the stain in the sunshine. Rinse in automoula remove grease spots from coats, carpets when the stain disappears, so the acid or any woolen texture, paint from fur-like water in a plant of water. Apply with a great interest of cleaning a pint of clean, cold and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through it until it is glid, soak first in cold water and bottle it of the stains in this solution for five. Cleaning cream made-after the following recipe is highly recommended for over a leaful of belling water, or hang seneral use in the household. It is a quart of water medium sized potatoes into a pouring off the water for cleaning heavy on the water for cleaning a pint of clean, cold and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through it until it is glid, soak first in cold water medium sized potatoes into a pouring off the water for cleaning a pint of clean, cold and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through them. If the stains are pouring off the water for cleaning pouring off the water for cleaning and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through it until it is glid, soak first in cold water medium sized potatoes into a pouring off the water for cleaning a pint of clean, cold and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through it until it is glid, soak first in cold water medium sized potatoes into a pouring off the water for clean, cold and carpets. Sprinkle said on a wine stain and water through it until it is glid, soak first in cold water medium